HEALY-DREW.

At the Church of Our Lady of the Gulf last night, Friday, June 23, 1922, Rev. Father Gmelch officiating, Miss Cecilia Drew, of Bay St. Louis, and Mr. Lawrence D. Healy, of New Orleans, were married in the presence of relatives and a few friends of the contracting parties.

The attendants were Miss Lucille Hymel and Mr. Funston Mauffray, both of this city.

The charming young bride is the accomplished daughter of Mrs. A. O. Bordelon, a young lady possessed of rare gifts, both of the heart and mind; a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy last year and who numbers her friends by the score.

Mr. Healy is no stranger in Bay St. Louis, a colleague at St. Stanislaus for quite a number of terms, from which institution he received his degree last year. He is an exemplary young man and well worthy of the excellent young lady whose heart and hand has been placed in his keeping.

Mr. and Mrs. Healy, who have the congratulations and best wishes of the many who know them, are spending a while at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bordelon, on the beach front, before leaving for New Orleans, where they will make their future home.

KRANZ-NICAISE.

An interesting event took place at the rectory of the Church of Our Lady of the Gulf on the evening of Tuesday, June 21, 1922, at 5 o'clock, when Miss Alma Nicaise became the bride of Mr. Clarence P. Kranz, well-known and prominent resident of Long Beach, Miss.

Rev. Father Gmelch, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kranz left for a short stay in New Orleans.

Miss Nicaise is the daughter of our well known townsman, Mr. Hermogene E. Nicaise, and a young lady possessed of many gifts of talent and admirable traits of quality. The groom is a young man of sterling quality and highly esteemed wherever known. Mr. and Mrs. Kranz will make their home in Long Beach.

They have the best wishes of many friends and acquaintances.

BRIDGE AT RIGOLETS TO PRECEDE THE ONE CROSSING THE CHEF

President of Louisville & Nashville Expresses Intention of Company in Letter to Law Firm Representing the Company in Louisiana—Impossible to Rebuild Chef Before Rigoles—Will Require About Two Years to Complete Structure.

COST OF RIGOLETS INVOLVES EXPENDITURE OF $3,128,179.

No Amount of Agitation of Litigation Will Hasten Matters, Declares President Mapother—Not Even an Order From Constituted Authority—Such Procedure Would Block the Expedition of Matters—Both Rigoles and Chef in Sound Condition.

"Work on the bridge projects over the Rigoles and the Chef Menteur is to begin late in the current year, according to President W. L. Mapother of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company in a letter to Henry H. Chaffe, of the firm of Denegre, Leovy & Chaffe, legal representatives of the company in Louisiana," says the New Orleans Times-Picayune of Sunday last, and continues as follows:

As it will be impossible, according to Mr. Mapother, to conduct the work at both projects concurrently, it is the intention of the company to undertake the Rigoles bridge first. The project at this point will involve the expenditure of $3,128,179, and will require not less than twenty-two months for completion. The Chef Menteur project will be undertaken immediately after the Rigoles construction has been completed.

"No amount of agitation or litigation possibly can result in creating the new structures at any earlier date than they will be constructed if the management is permitted to proceed altogether of its own volition," said Mr. Mapother. "No order of the Louisiana Railroad Commission, or other duly constituted authority, could, in my opinion, force the creation in advance of the purpose of the management, or just as soon as it may be reasonably practicable to do so. On the contrary, the situation is such that we would be compelled to oppose any order of the commission, and this would result in creating delay because all plans would have to be held in abeyance pending final adjudication."

The present bridges are and always have been entirely safe, according to Mr. Mapother.

"The Louisiana Railroad Commission itself," continues Mr. Mapother, "found, 'the undisputed facts show that the bridges across the Rigoles and Chef Menteur are for all purposes wholly safe, possessing sufficient strength to withstand almost any weather disturbance, except, of course, the violent tropical hurricanes which in the past have appeared at periods about five or six years apart.'"

"Business and financial conditions are such that we cannot prudently enter into any agreement, or otherwise obligate the company to inaugurate the work upon any specified date. I can only reiterate our intention to proceed with the plans just as soon as the circumstances and conditions may permit."

YOUR UNCLE SAM IS A BOOTLEGGER NOW A FACT UNDISPUTED

The Busch Charges That the United States Government is "Incomparably the Biggest Bootlegger in the World." Cannot Be Challenged—Unlawful to Sell on Land; Lawful to Sell on American Ships at Sea—Makes the Volstead Act Laughing Stock.

SHIPPING INTERESTS CAN NOT COMPETE FOREIGN CONCERNS.

Question Is Now Up To Congress—It Can Take One or Two Courses in This Matter—Either Destroy Traffic of Shipping Board By Literal Interpretation of Volstead Act Or It Can Remove U. S. Government From Ranks of Bootlegging Activities.

Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board is bitterly resentful because a St. Louis brewer wrote a letter to President Harding alleging that the United States government is "incomparably the biggest bootlegger in the world," says the New York World.

Congress is in a state of mind because Representative Gallivan, of Massachusetts, has read into the Record the wine card of one of the Shipping Board liners, which verifies what the St. Louis brewer said.

To Chairman Lasker the Busch charges are proof of a desire to rehabilitate the German merchant marine by injuring the American merchant marine, which seems to be going far afield for an explanation. The evident motive of Mr. Busch was to call attention to the official hypocrisy that spends millions in enforcing the Volstead law on land while openly violating it at sea for the financial profit of the government itself.

Undoubtedly the Volstead law applies to ships flying the American flag. It was so held by the Department of Justice when Mr. Palmer was attorney general, and that is the obvious interpretation. American ships have the legal status on American territory.

It was found, however, that the Shipping Board could not "operate passenger vessels on a prohibition basis in competition with the British, French, Italians and Dutch, so the Board has wisely been following the advice of its own counsel who nullified the Volstead law outside the three-mile limit. That was the only practical thing to do. The alternative was the sacrifice of the merchant marine so far as passenger traffic was concerned.

Mr. Lasker's reply to Mr. Busch would have been more impressive if it had been free from personal vituperation and had been confined to the issue. The United States government is unquestionably the biggest bootlegger in the world. It has been made so by a cowardly and hypocritical Congress dominated by the Anti-Saloon League. A citizen who calls the President's attention to that fact is not necessarily an agent of German shipping interests. He may be nothing worse than logically minded, and hence incapable of understanding the legal or moral difference between a private individual's selling a glass of beer on land and the United States government selling a glass of whisky at sea, both transactions being carried on for profit.

In deciding to disregard the Volstead law the Shipping Board followed the only line of action open to it unless it was prepared to tie up its ships and let them rust as monuments to fanaticism, which permitted a private lobby to dictate legislation. Consequently we have the extraordinary spectacle of paid agents of the United States government chasing bell boys up and down Broadway for selling liquor to hotel guests while a few miles from Broadway other paid agents of the United States government are wearing white aprons and freely selling everything from beer to Jamaica rum, with Scotch at 25 cents a drink. If that were not enough, the Shipping Board is compelled to charge five cents more for American rye than for Scotch because all the rye must be obtained by direct violation of the Enforcement Act.

Congress can take one of two courses in this matter. It can destroy the passenger traffic of the United States Shipping Board by insisting on a literal interpretation of the Volstead law or it can remove the United States government from the rank of out-and-out bootleggers by authorizing the Shipping Board to do legally what it is now doing by nullification. Will it emancipate itself long enough from the realities of the merchant marine?

GOOD READING.

The sixth, seventh and eighth grades in the Evanston schools include a lot of intelligent children. They took a vote on the ten most popular books, and their selections did credit to their taste. "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain; "Little Women" and "Old-Fashioned Girls" by Louisa M. Alcott; Stevenson's "Treasure Island," Jack London's "Call of the Wild," Booth Tarkington's "Penrod" and Johanna Spyri's "Heidi" all got in. A better lot could hardly have been picked. "Pollyanna" was also present, unfortunately, and a volume listed as "King Arthur," which might be Howard Pyle's stories of King Arthur, and, if so, rounds out the ten admirably.

We particularly miss "Robinson Crusoe," "Pilgrim's Progress" and "Ivanhoe" among older stories, and Pyle's stories of Robin Hood among the modern classics. Aside from these, it looks like a model list. If these books are really what our young boys and girls enjoy most in fiction, nobody need worry much about degeneration in literary taste.

It is worth noting, too, that of these ten, aside from "Pollyanna," to which we cannot reconcile ourselves altogether, all but two are by American authors, and yet only one by a living writer. Probably few things could please Booth Tarkington so much as the knowledge that his "Penrod" holds a place in the hearts of children alongside of "Huck Finn," "Treasure Island" and "The Call of the Wild."

And how it would rejoice the spirit of Louisa Alcott to know that "Little Women," which so many critics nowadays think it necessary to hold in contempt, is still beloved by the children whom she loved.

OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING.

Optimistic reports of agricultural and financial conditions throughout the West and South have been made by Eugene Meyer, director of the War Finance Corporation. Returning from a six weeks' tour he reports finding a more hopeful condition all over the West and a future outlook exceptionally bright. The crop outlook, he says, is the best in years, and a hopeful feeling is growing fast among all classes of farmers and businessmen.

Meyer, he says, are reopening in Utah, Montana and Arizona, and some railroad construction has started up in the Southwest for the first time in five years. The buying power of the farmers, Mr. Meyer declares, will be somewhat restricted, as they are operating as economically as possible this season and buying only necessities before returning to their normal scale of purchases. The indications are that this year's crop will bring good prices, with a satisfactory supply of labor at more conservative wages than have prevailed at any time since the war.

Business men around Bay St. Louis while not over enthusiastic admit that the outlook is steadily becoming brighter, and that already they feel the trend toward normal business conditions. Prices in the wholesale markets are again becoming settled, labor is again finding its place and adjusting itself to conditions, bankers are more optimistic, and money easier to secure. All of which comes as mighty good news and an answer to most everyone's prayer.

THE SQUARE DEAL.

We are not courting praise, compliments or even thanks. We are only asking a square deal. We merely want to give the public the best paper our patronage will permit and to encourage the right and discourage the wrong in the community. In fact, we feel that every publisher has a solemn duty to perform in printing a newspaper. Whether it is for the best interests of all to print an article or to omit it altogether must be decided and the editor's conscience (if he has one) rather than his desires must be the judge.

But what we started in to say was that two men actually thanked us recently for what we had said in these columns. As we said before, we were not courting any thanks and did not expect it, but it made us feel a little better, just the same. We know that people are appreciative, but there are mighty few who express it, at least in words. Your friends befriend you in a thousand ways and you perhaps never let them know you notice it. But when that friend needs defense, you're right there to do everything in your power to help him. That's the modern way of life.

But there's a mighty lot of encouragement in the words "Thank you," and we don't believe any of us use these words enough. Children run into this office for scraps of paper, which we are always glad to give them, and they ask favors of the merchants. Yet hardly one out of ten stops to say "Thank you." Politeness is an essential to the success of a boy or girl, but they can't be polite if they are not taught politeness at home. So, for our own sakes, as well as the sake of the boy and girl—let's try and learn to say "Thank you" a little oftener.

John Sharp Williams is against the soldier bonus. An exchange calls to mind the fact that he was drawing a fat salary while the soldier boys drew $30.00 per month.

HERE'S THE ANSWER.

Not long ago we argued through these columns that it would be only fitting and proper for churches in towns like Bay St. Louis to advertise. We are glad to note in a dispatch to daily newspapers that Rev. J. J. Tisdall, pastor of one of the biggest Methodist churches in Columbus, O., is of the same opinion. He gives five reasons why every church should advertise in the columns of daily and weekly papers. Here are the reasons—and a mighty strong argument they present:

- 1—They would prove that they have faith in their business.
- 2—They would show that they believe they have something the world needs.
- 3—They would reach people in their homes.
- 4—They would have the benefit of a constant reminder to the readers of what religion has to offer.
- 5—It pays anybody to advertise when truth prevails in all his actions.

NAMING THE FARM.

In South Dakota there is a law by which a farmer who has given his farm a name can register the name with the clerk of courts for $1 and thereafter have the exclusive right to that name. We believe farmers around Bay St. Louis would do well to ask their State representative to urge a similar law and to get others in the Legislature to boost it. The farm that has been christened adds dignity to itself, its owner and the neighborhood. The result is the farmer takes greater pride in it, makes it a better farm and markets a higher class of produce because he wants to keep the name of the farm in good standing before the public. All of which means more money for the farmer, and that means greater prosperity in town. Give the farm a name, just as any other business institution, and see how quickly people will start commenting on your enterprise.

IT WORKS BOTH WAYS.

As long as coal mine owners boost the price of coal whenever they can we may expect coal miners to do the same thing with their wages. Herbert Hoover has tried to stop mine owners from boosting prices during the strike by approving a price of $3.50 a ton at the mines in West Virginia. And that's a big price. Before the war mine owners were glad to sell spot coal at the mines for 95 cents a ton and during the war the government fixed a price of $2.25 at the mines. Now they are to receive $3.50—and they're not satisfied. These figures ought to interest Bay St. Louis citizens who burn coal, and may serve to show them that in the present argument the blame for high coal prices should not be placed wholly at the door of the retailer or the miner. The retailer must raise his price if coal goes up at the mine, and the striker is only asking a living wage. So, on the "Salute" Guy vied the first if anyone is trying to play the role of "whole hog or none" it is the men who own the mines.

"SEEING THE TELEPHONE TALK."

A picture called "Seeing the Telephone Talk," which clears up some of the mysteries of the telephone, will be shown at the A. & G. Theatre on June 26th.

The object of the picture is to show the process by which sound waves are carried in the air to a telephone transmitter, converted into waves of electricity and then back again to sound waves in the air, thereby transmitting speech.

To show how far a telephone can talk, there is a picture of how the line was made up over which was transmitted a five-thousand-mile long distance conversation between Santa Catalina Island, off the coast of California, and Havana, Cuba.

Sound waves are complicated in themselves, but the principal is simple, and what this principal is and how the sound waves progress, not only in the air, but over the electrical wires, is shown graphically, also the many parts which constitute a telephone desk stand.

This is one of the series of pictures which the Southern Railway System, the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, the Georgia, Atlanta and West Point and Western of Alabama Railroads and the Southern Bell and Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Companies are producing and exhibiting through the Southeast in combination with Southern Enterprises, Incorporated.

AS TENDER AS BRAVE.

It was a beautiful little story which came from Paris under date of June 10 by the Associated Press. Most papers did not print it. The few who did showed it aside under a little one or two line head. Here it is:

"Excuse me, I am I asked the Wounded Soldiers' Institute? I asked a blind veteran of a passing pedestrian as he tapped his way along the sidewalk. 'I've been there only twice and I'm not quite sure of the way.'"

"You are close to it now; let me take you," came the reply.

Arriving at the door the guide said to the janitor: "Kindly take this man to the section for the blind."

COLUMN de BULL.

By Fuller Bull.

Little Johnny had just finished his last piece of pie when he was heard to heave a sigh. "What's the sigh about, Johnny?" asks the mother. "I was just thinking, Ma, that all good things have to come to an end."

That's the same with the House of Brains, fair Prunella; it came to the end last Sunday. The end for this season.

All we, of the well-known variety, who had accumulated a couple of invites, was "more those present" to bear witness to the brilliant what was due to make it's final parade over the footlights, an' where old Demos, these, Cicero, an' that buncha pikers, would be made duck to the tall an' uncut. Bo, it sure was duckin' time, too, for them birds put in on sloppy, I'm here to publish it.

Our Mozart friend, the Prof., had his orchestra tuned up to Bayou Galere, an' they started one more Gran' March, everybody began to rubber; soon we see the parade comin' with the Dominie, the Prexy, vice-Prexy an' our Honorable 44th Annual friend Gex in the lead; followin' comes the huskies buncha Rockchaws what ever made your eyes feel glad, on the Grid. A doz. an' a half even. Good lookin' bunch, Prunella, yep, looked for the world like some Supreme Court had just let out.

Them birds marched up the avenue, thru the multitude, an' onto the stage, without battin' a eye (I sho felt like hollerin' "We want a touch-down") an' took their seats. Then begins the time when the aforesaid Demos, an' Cicero loses the championship pennant, for the flood gates of eloquence was busted off'n the hinges, an' our friend departed: Dan'l W., had one put over on him in the word sign.

The "Salute" Guy fired the first gun—that's the proper way to salute his verbal powder, was in good condition an' every explosion was well-timed, the crowd handed him the Glad Mitt.

Then another guy Essays his part in showin' that Webster was a piker. Bo, that lad shows up friend Daniel to a fare-thee-well, he tells ALL there was to it, an' does it to the Queen's taste.

Then son Edward arises. Now, Prunella, the arisin' of the foresaid son meant the Valedictorian (Gosh, I hope I don't have to REPEAT.) That name is hung on the lad on a case his burning in the midnight oil, was more'n the other guys an' was under the Will-o'-the-wisp bar. Well, the Valedictorian, we won't say he's a champion, but an soon leaves his A-B-C's behind, just how LEADS it is to quit school, what good times he had learnin' all them lessons, an' how he deserves all what was handed him. He's the guy what's got the job sayin' Goodbye to the bunch, an' his glory is threefold: he heads the Roster of 22, is No. 1 of the doz. an' a half, an' Papa S. pats him on the back with a "By George, son, your Dad's PROUD of you!"

Then up jumps old dad Experience in a Palm Beach in the well-known person of our good friend, The Hon. Walter G., who hands them Grads. out some of the best cream what's been our good fortune to listen in on in a coon's age. The Hon. W. G. tells 'em exactly what road to take an' how to jump the mudholes, an' also how to dope out the stuff what cops the cup of success. In other words, he's the Doctor, an' gives 'em the best prescription in the book; what, we predict, will bring home the bacon if properly mixed.

Then the evenin' is spent in passin' out the jewelry to a 'smilin' buncha kids, what every one worked hard for.

EATS? Yep, Prunella, they always have 'em; we heard all about the sacrificed chickens. But, a guy informed us that you had to be 'mong the Elect to partake of the sacrifice. No, we wasn't no candidate, you see, a guy must have a good appetite, an' ours had been sufferin' with cold-milkitis.

Just like lil Johnny says: "All things come to an end."

The good Bros. will now have what they deserve: "Peace."

BONDS RETIRED.

The Biloxi city commissioners this week retired bonds amounting to $6,000 upon the city market house, which have been in existence for some time. They also paid off $3,500 of bonds which were issued 20 years ago for the purpose of constructing a shelled roadway in front of the city.

"Take him yourself," growled the janitor. "Under the doorway in the other side of the courtyard." The civilian did so, but on the way out addressed the janitor again. "Couldn't you be a little more obliging to the blind?" he asked gently. "There are too many and I haven't the time," was the response. "It seems to me it is your duty to help them," said the other. "I can find time."

The man was Marshal Poch. The really great are thoughtful, considerate, courteous. Marshal Poch is great because he served France, and he felt it no less his duty to serve one of the men who, even though but an humble polin, had given his sight for the same cause. "The bravest are the tenderest." Mobile Register.

EDGAR M. LANE FOR SUPREME COURT JUDGE.

Well-Known Legislator From Smith County Candidate for Judgeship From Southern District—Served Eight Years in Legislature.

Hon. Edgar M. Lane, prominent attorney of Raleigh, Smith county, has announced as a candidate for the Supreme Court Judgeship, Southern District, composed of thirty counties, and has begun an active and aggressive campaign from headquarters which he has established in Hattiesburg, with a brother-in-law.

Mr. Lane became a candidate as a result of insistent demands of friends and admirers in all parts of the District. Many of them had watched with enthusiastic interest his brilliant record in the Mississippi Legislature, first as senator, and later as representative. Many important committee assignments brought Mr. Lane into very active service for this State, and his legislative record as, one along constructive and progressive lines. His friends predict that he will be nominated in the August primaries and that he will take to the Supreme Court a wealth of ability and judgment that will reflect credit upon himself, the State and his district.

The Smith County Reformer, of Raleigh, published in the candidate's home town, in speaking of Senator Lane's candidacy says in part:

"Senator Lane is very popular throughout South Mississippi, the result of eight years' continuous service in the State Legislature, where his splendid intellect and great legal ability early stamped him as one of the few really strong men of that body. He is a native of Mississippi, 38 years of age, a graduate of the literary department of Mississippi College, and of the law department of the University of Virginia. As an attorney he has built up a large and lucrative practice, and is universally recognized as one of the brightest legal minds in South Mississippi. But this recognition of his legal and literary achievements was not all that prompted Senator Lane's friends in urging his candidacy for the Supreme Court Judgeship. They recognized in Senator Lane a really strong character upon whom no body or corporation has any strings; a man who carries his head upon his own shoulders, and whose opinions, if elevated to the bench, would not be colored by bias or political expediency. To this recognition we, as a life-long acquaintance, are delighted to add our approval. Mississippi needs her biggest and best men on the Supreme bench and we believe that Senator Lane is one of them."

ESTIMABLE SUMMER RESIDENT PASSES AWAY.

Mrs. J. W. Barrett, residing at Cedar Point, died at Toussaint Infirmary, New Orleans, Wednesday morning.

The announcement from New Orleans Wednesday that Mrs. J. W. Barrett had died at Toussaint Infirmary that morning was received here as a distinct shock, and the message carried with it much sorrow. For Mrs. Barrett, although only a recent arrival here, had already formed a wide circle of friends and she was known as a most estimable woman.

Last February, while residing at Birmingham, Mrs. Barrett underwent a major operation, and while for a time her life was despaired of, she rallied and was soon on the high road to recovery. Her physician advised that she be taken to the Mississippi Gulf Coast and her husband moved his home here, leasing one of the Stream cottages at Cedar Point. Her condition grew favorably all the time until about a week or ten days since she was removed to New Orleans.

Mrs. Barrett was 34 years of age. She is survived by her husband, advertising man for the Forter Clothing Company at New Orleans, and Birmingham, and a daughter, Lucile, about 8 years old.

Mrs. Barrett moved in the very best of circles and although comparatively a stranger here, she was popularly known in local society. Her untimely death has brought sorrow to the many who knew this devoted wife and mother and most estimable woman.

BAY ST. LOUIS AMUSEMENTS.

SKETCHES OF FAMOUS PLAYERS IN "DON'T TELL EVERYTHING."

Wallace Reid—Born in St. Louis, Mo., 1892. Educated in New York and graduated from the New York Military Academy. Served some years in Wyoming and returning to New York entered vaudeville. He has been in motion pictures for many years and has been starred by Paramount in many pictures. Had leading role with Gloria Swanson in "The Affairs of Anatol," and both are seen again together in "Don't Tell Everything."

Gloria Swanson—Born in Chicago, Ill., 1894. She has been in motion pictures for many years and has been starred by Paramount in many pictures. Had leading role with Wallace Reid in "The Affairs of Anatol," and both are seen again together in "Don't Tell Everything."

Frank Leigh, who plays a big part in "The Light in the Clearing," by Irving Bacheller, which comes to the A. & G. Theatre Monday, had to let his head and hair grow for three weeks to fit himself for the part. As soon as other producers knew that he had collected this hirsute adornment, he received many offers to play "Hard-boiled parts," as he calls them.

Rosemary Theby, who plays an important role in "Shame," the big William Fox special coming to the A. & G. Theatre on Saturday, is a beautiful woman much in demand for types of virile womanhood. She appears in three big Fox productions—"Shame," "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," and "Zane Grey's 'The Last Trail'" the last-named a late November release.

T. Hayes Hunter, director of "The Light in the Clearing," by Irving Bacheller, a special film which shows Monday night at the A. & G. Theatre, believes firmly that within five years colleges and colleges will use pictures extensively in teaching many subjects. This screen novel should be seen by everybody, as it is a graphic pictorial history of America in the early days, at the same time being an absorbing entertainment.

T. Hayes Hunter, the man who produced "Bartholomew," has given the screen another masterpiece in "The Light in the Clearing," the Irving Bacheller picture which opens at the A. & G. Theatre on Monday.

Bachelor Novel Now on Screen.

Irving Bacheller, the famous American novelist, who for years stood with the Antillean cinema element and kept his novels from screen presentation, has again succumbed to the lure of the shadow street.

Mr. W. W. Rockinson, whose organization is releasing T. Hayes Hunter's production of Irving Bacheller's latest selling novel, "The Light in the Clearing," which comes to the A. & G. Theatre on Monday, has for the second time succeeded in overcoming the author's prejudice.

Seven editions of over nine hundred thousand copies of "The Light in the Clearing" have been issued by Mr. Bacheller's publisher, selling record in American fiction which is exceeded only by the enormous circulation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The book has been translated into fourteen different languages. In addition to the publication of the story and results in several thrilling complications with a surprising climax. It is an outdoor picture that will delight the average fan. Sam Wood was director. Dorothy Cumming and Genevieve Blinn are in the supporting cast.

Wallace Reid in All-Star Cast.

Real outdoor sports, such as golf, motor racing and the like, appeal to Wallace Reid, the athletic Paramount star, more than most other forms of amusement, but of course his talent for music enables him to get a lot of joy out of that too.

His home in Hollywood has a "jazz room," as he calls it, where he keeps his saxophones, piano, plenty of easy chairs, books and a billiard table. There he spends lots of his leisure time with his friends.

Mr. Reid is one of the all-star cast of "Don't Tell Everything," which will be seen at the A. & G. Theatre next Tuesday. Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter, and others complete a big cast in which two of the stars, Reid and Miss Swanson—are stars in their own right.

A comedy-drama that shows Walter Hiers as the leading man, a fat and dreamy poet, is "Her Sturdy Oak," Miss Handa Hawley's latest release. Miss Hawley plays the role of a typical clinging vine, and wins the hero away from his first fiancée, a manish and strong-minded woman ranch owner, who had picked the fat poet for her own and meant to take very good care of him. This role is played most amusingly by Sylvia Ashton.

When the poet turns from his would-be provider and marries the clinging vine, everybody predicts ruin for the impractical young pair. At first these dire predictions seem about to be realized, as debts, worries, and finally twins are added to their perplexities; but the fat poet and his clinging vine develop an unexpected stamina and courage, and find happiness and good fortune by their own efforts.

"Her Sturdy Oak" will be the feature next Wednesday at the A. & G. Theatre.

VIVIAN MARTIN IN STRIKING ROLE.

Blind Beauty Wedded to Disfigured Man in "Song of the Soul."

Beauty and the Beast, a tale as old as the hills, but fresher than any, a best-seller of the day, loses nothing through its modern setting and plot variations in "The Song of the Soul," a Messmore Kendall and Robert W. Chambers production, starring Vivian Martin, which comes to the A. & G. Theatre next Friday night.

"The Song of the Soul," which was directed by John W. Noble, is taken from a story by William J. Locke, called "An Old World Romance." It deals with a blind beauty and a disfigured man—the beast; and of how their common sacrifice makes them finally blended, through self-sacrifice and love, into an enduring and happy marriage.

Miss Martin plays the role of beauty—she is well qualified, externally and artistically for the part, who in her childhood loses her sight through fire. That she does not lose her life due to the courage of a boy playmate, who is disfigured as a result of his heroism.

Years later the two meet again. Jerry Wendover, the boy, grown into a man, has retired to the "backwater" section of the South, a recluse from life as a result of his sensitiveness over his facial impairment. Shunned by men and women, he, in turn, shuns both. When he accidentally meets Barbara, he is astonished that she does not recoil from his scarred countenance. He discovers that she cannot see, and a friendship grows up between them, and later they are married.

The culmination of the story lies in an operation on Barbara, and in the magnificent sacrifice which she makes for the sake of her husband, so that he may still remain her lover. It would be unfair to reveal the great climax. The picture augurs well for the coming Kendall and Chambers presentations of Miss Martin, all of which are to be released by Goldwyn.

Sensational Drama, "Shame," Booked For A. & G. Theatre.

"Shame," the William Fox super-special, which created a sensation in New York, has been booked by the manager of the A. & G. Theatre and will be shown there for one night next Saturday.

This is an announcement of importance, for the picture is conceded to be one of the biggest of the year. Its power of appeal was tested at a prominent Broadway theatre, where it drew large crowds at every performance and made a tremendous impression.

"Shame" is the story of a young man, David Fielding, born in an alien land, who is brought back to the family home in San Francisco as a child after his father's tragic death. He inherits his grandfather's enormous wealth and becomes head of the big Fielding shipping interests. He marries a beautiful and talented woman, and is expecting matrimony. Life, so far, has been kind to young Fielding.

From the country where the young shipping magnate was born comes a trader of evil reputation, who had been bailed in some of his nefarious schemes by David's father. He finds the son and in revenge tells him he is a half-caste, son of William Fielding and a native woman in the far-away country. The trader threatens to tell the story unless David agrees to enter with him and his shipping facilities into a huge smuggling enterprise. David refuses indignantly, and laughs at the story of mixed blood. The thought preys upon him, however, and finally drives him to take his infant child and flee from civilization to the snowfields of Alaska. There he battles with a wolf and experiences other wild adventures. The mystery of his life is cleared in a startling fashion.

"Shame" was directed by Emmett J. Flynn.

"Microbe of Love," Musical Comedy in Three Acts, Creditably Presented at Woodmen Hall Last Tuesday Night—Under Auspices of Local Order of Eastern Star—Large Audience Witnesses One of the Best Presentations Put On Local Boards in Years.

With barely a week to study and rehearse their respective parts, the young ladies and gentlemen of Bay St. Louis who put on the three-act musical comedy at Woodmen Hall Tuesday night covered themselves with glory. Success marked their every effort, and the audience enjoyed "The Microbe of Love" from the beginning to the final curtain.

The play, owned by the Wayne P. Sewell Lyceum and Producing Company, of Atlanta, was put on by Miss Thelma Richardson, traveling representative and coach, who directed the entire production. The cast of characters is unusually large, but there was ample local talent and in an incredible short time the play was studied, rehearsed and presented, including the number of choruses.

The story of the play is briefly told. The spinsters of the town have organized in order to catch a husband. The bachelors of the same community have similarly organized, but for opposite purpose—not to marry. But Madam Hymen Cupid appears with the Microbe of Love, and one inoculation is sufficient. The rest is easy to surmise.

Opening act presented a scene of the spinsters in regular session, determined to "catch a man." Their dress typical, and a number of ludicrous situations proved amusing, particularly the number of local allusions to bachelors and near-bachelors. The spinsters were:

Priscilla Prunes (President of the Spinster Organization)—Lillith Ansley.

Samantha Loving—Mrs. Leo Seal.

Arabella Antique—Olga von Drozkowsky.

Sophia Sweetgum—Miliam Engman.

Ima Fraud—Alma von Drozkowsky.

Wanta Man—Ethel Gex.

Lillie Lonesome—Alice Chapman.

Madam Hymen Cupid, Discoverer of the "Microbe Bug"—Thelma Richardson.

Following this act, the second brought forth a meeting of the bachelors. The young gentlemen were particularly splendid in their respective parts, their choruses showing a number of good voices. Many absurd situations were present. The respective parts called forth much attention, and, needless to say, like the spinsters, were fully equal to the demands of the play. The bachelors, led by Emile J. Toca, were as follows:

Billy Bachelor, President of Bachelors' Club—Emile Toca.

U. B. Careful—Grady Perkins.

Simon Shy—Robert von Ehren.

Bobby Bashful—Simon L. Engman.

Very Bold—Wallace Chapman.

Never Wed—Jim Sylvester.

Can't Catch—Sewell Firsching.

Jeremiah Henpeck, President of the Matrimonial Advisory Board—Martin Blanchard.

With no intention to particularize, it must be said Martin Blanchard looked and acted the part with equal satisfactory effect. Mrs. Bernard Shields, as Mrs. Jeremiah Henpeck, "who gives free advice on catching and holding husbands," gave a portrayal of the part and a rendition of the lines that left nothing unfinished. The scene by both was pleasing and effective.

Laughter was provoked simultaneously as part after part unfolded and was interpreted.

Several Specialties were introduced. Vaudeville stunts that proved of interest and merit. The "Left Over Sisters" proved one of the features of the program.

Ever Ready—Carmen de Ben.

Tillie Comes—Mrs. Ernest Drack.

SPECIALS.

An Old-Fashioned Girl—Emmas Summersgill.

Lord, 'Tis A Pity—Funston Mauff.

Fifi—Armede Del Bondio.

Cupids—Myrie Kergosien, Eunice Toca, Lorraine Quintini, Dora Mae Quintini, Lois Ansley, Mary Allet Telldard.

Particularly charming were the Cupids. Veritable live Cupids were the six little tots whose names appear hereinabove. Just the Cupids one sees in the accepted pictures. Even Nell Brinkley could not draw a more conventional and artistic Cupid.

And by no means did the chorus girls have the least to do. Their appearance on the stage was frequent, and every time with some new song and new costume. The effects were striking and pleasing. The chorus girls were: Misses Hermie Perkins, Ethel Osoinach, Corinne Gleason, Alma Gemin, Anita Jordy, Gertrude Perkins, Mary Bourgeois, Willie Dill Ansley, Erin Saucier, Emma Summersgill, Ethel Horlock, Anna Eche, Elzie Toquet, Ione von Drozkowsky, Amelia Deacon.

Miss Mary McDonald, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McDonald, as the piano accompanist for the play, scored a marked success. Musical numbers were varied, all good and embraced the following:

Opening—Ensemble
Twenty-Five Lonely Little

Spinsters—Priscilla Prunes
Teeny-Weeny Michobe—Madam Cupid
A Good Man Is Hard to Find—Spinsters

An Old-Fashioned Wife—Spinsters
Chorus and Spinsters
Bird in Hand—"Unfortunates"
If You Want to Catch a Man—Spinsters

The Wimmen Won't Let Me Alone—A Brave Man
Fishing—Madam Cupid and Chorus
Here Comes A Married Man—Spinsters

Bachelors' Chorus
Catch 'Em Young—Jeremiah Henpeck
Microbe of Love—Spinsters

They Always Follow Me—Madam Cupid
Teeny Weeny Bandbox—Chorus
Rattle, Rattle, Rattle—Entire Cast
I'm Looking for a Sweetheart—U. B. Careful

Sunshade—Mr. and Mrs. Henpeck and Chorus
My Gingham Apron Girl—Spinsters
Simon Shy and Chorus
Our Cozy Bungalow—Spinsters

Billy Bachelor, Madam Cupid
Grand Finale—Ensemble

This play was presented under the auspices of the local Order of Eastern Star, receiving half of the net proceeds, slightly over one hundred dollars as a whole, after all expenses were deducted. While the names of many appear on the program, and to these much praise is due for their work, study and talent, yet, like in all undertakings, there is a silent force—men and women who shoulder responsibility and who do. Without them it would be impossible to accomplish the things that become realities. In this affair the occasion is not an exception. There were a number who gave their time and ability and exerted much effort, and in summing up the success these must not be lost sight of.

The Echo is of the opinion the community enjoyed and appreciated the occasion. This was best evidenced by the attendance and the enthusiasm which gave its stamp of approval.

—The Tea Room will be open every Sunday for the summer months. Home-made conches a specialty. Cakes, cream, sandwiches, etc.

—We are glad to note the continued success of the Bay Hotel. Over one hundred people took dinner there Sunday. The register carries many names of resident guests.

—The political pot is beginning to simmer in Waveland. A municipal election will take place in December and it is said there are already a number of candidates for the mayoralty. The term is for four years.

—One large roll top desk, with chair to match. Bay Mercantile Company.

—Mr. and Mrs. Rene de Montluzin and their young son sends The Echo greetings from San Francisco, California. They have been traveling along the Pacific Coast for the past few weeks and are due home the early part of next week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Perkins came out from New Orleans during the early part of the week and spent several days visiting relatives and friends. Miss Mary Perkins is home from college in New Orleans for the summer.

—Jos. L. Gager has been appointed by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen and Owen Crawford by the Board of Bond Commissioners as a committee of two, and these in turn to appoint a third member, which, as a whole, are to investigate the method of building the sea wall, and to report any irregularities and inconsistencies, if any. The Delta Cement and Construction Company courts investigation and invites criticism—but it must be legitimate.

—Young Miss Stella Gex was taken to the King's Daughters' Hospital at Gulfport Thursday noon, where she underwent an operation that afternoon for a serious case of appendicitis. It is gratifying to note the patient is doing well and in due time will be up and home again. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Gex.
